Lecture and Entertainment Course of Senior High School Class.

Much as our clubs, lodges and churches are enjoyed, as social and intellectual centres, there is a desire on the part of many for a course of entertainment that will bring us some good thoughts that are not made in our somewhat limited circle.

There are expenses to be met by boys and girls during their last year in school. The above course of three entertainments is to serve a double purpose:—to help the credit side of the expense account of the class of 1902, and bring us some good talent during the winter.

A percentage of the net earnings will go to the school library.

The price of a course ticket to all three evenings is $1.00. Two hundred of these course tickets must be subscribed for, before it will be safe to make any closing arrangements. The price of tickets for single entertainments for sale on each night will be 50 cents. Do not put off the young people with a promise to take in one or possibly two evenings, but buy a course ticket and fit the guarantee.

Full notice of each entertainment will be given in the two villages, in various parts of the town, and in Oxford.

Joseph H. Jewett went to Boston, Saturday last.

James G. Fogg of Harrison was here on Monday.

Dr. E. L. Hall is in Boston on business, this week.

Changes in Village Primaries.

The crowded condition of our village schoolrooms has caused the superintendent to call a meeting of the village school committee on little anxiety.

Rooms planned and furnished for 40 pupils have been filled to overflowing for several years past. We have had to endeavor to accommodate more pupils than we had desks for, more than should be crowded into the space assigned to one room, and at times as many as 17 more than one teacher could teach, with credit to herself and with justice to the children.

Three grades have been seated in each of the primary-schools and two grades in the second grammar room.

On the Monday that school began this fall there were registered in the most crowded rooms of our common schools pupils as follows:

Upper primary.....53
Middle primary.....52
Lower primary.....51
Second grammar.....57

The teacher of the first grammar school, with 32 pupils of her own, is required to hear her reading and Physiology classes in single divisions of 32 at a time, and to receive from the second grammar room two recitations daily. Seated are placed in the limited floor space and one aisle in this room to serve as recitation seats and seven scholars from the second grade room are seated here.

The situation in the primary schools is unfair to teachers and scholars alike: Namely, 80 pupils at the lower primary and 50 at each of the others. The proper solution of the problem that confronts us is a new building for primary scholars alone but it is not the sentiment of your committee to spend money that is not appropriated, or to run behind in its expenditures.

It is made to reclassify the primary schools and change the district line in the village.

As now arranged each primary school has three grades or divisions and the teacher's work is cut up to the extent that individual scholars do not receive the attention that each one merits.

Beginning next Monday morning all the third grade primary pupils of the village will attend school at the present primary room in the high school building, while first and second grade primary scholars living on Marston street and below that street will attend the lower primary school, and first and second grade children living above Marston street will attend the upper primary.

Thus the third grade primary scholars will get the undivided attention of one teacher, and first and second grade scholars the attention of one teacher, while hitherto the teacher in each primary school has had to divide her time between three grades.

Pupils beginning school for the first time will receive much more attention and the town puts off for a time at least the expenditure of more money.

We regret very much the necessity of obliging some of the little ones going a little longer distance but the benefits outweigh the inconveniences. It is hoped that at the next town meeting arrangements will be made to provide accommodation for the large increase of scholars. By order of the School Board.

CHARLES P. BARNES, Supt.

James O. Crooker has a crew working on his hay scales repairing the mill.

New shingles on the Reed house at corner of Main and Pleasant streets.

Mrs. C. B. Bailey and son Harry of Lewiston are visiting at Freeland Howe's.

Arthur G. Wiley of Bethel and Harry H. Nevers are attending medical school at Portland.

Good map of Oxford County for 25 cents, a better one for 50 cents. Send to this office.

Ross L. Bickford's vacation is ended and he went to Brockton, Mass., to work last Saturday.

L. P. Bartlett Jr. is making good progress toward convalescence. He is at home in Lynn.

E. Morey has purchased B. F. Spinney and his crew team and is to do the shoe factory teaming.

Newton Richardson and wife of Bethel spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Stearns.

The worn out concrete sidewalk in front of the Tucker harness store is to be replaced with brick.

Mrs. Betsey Greenleaf has had her residence on Main street reshipped before the heavy fall rains come.

Freeman Hathaway, who was called to his home in Monson on account of his mother's death, is in town.

Mrs. William C. Garey is spending a week with her folks at Lowell, Mass., and with friends in Haverhill.

Superintendent Ernest C. Tarr of the Radcliffe Shoe Co. and his family are boarding at Cyrus Woodsman's.

Ed. W. H. Jackson of Massena, N. Y., will preach at the Adventist service in G. A. R. hall, Sunday afternoon.

Paul Lock's bulldog interviewed a hedgehog and did it so thoroughly that it was found necessary to shoot him.

Allice Swett, who has been visiting her sister at Rumford, Fall, has returned home and resumed her labors in the shoe shop.

Dr. H. P. Jones has recently given away a large litter of s. t. b. Angora kittens. We trust they will prove true to their pedigree.

Harry H. Glidden is to have charge of O. B. Cummings & Sons' South Paris C. B. Cummings and feed store. He commenced work, this week.

Wm. C. Leavitt will put new hot air furnaces in the houses of Mr. Horace Cole on Oak avenue and J. W. Crommett on Tucker street.

An old crazy woman was about town for several days the last of the week. She appeared to be vicious and many people were frightened at her, but she has disappeared, talking of going to Canada. She was around in the same way once before about three years ago.

The J. C. Rockwell Co. is on the boards at Norway opening a house, this week. They are a dramatic troupe and have nightly changes of bill. Their have nightly changes in flattering terms of patrons all speak in flattering terms of the troupe as actors. There are some dancers and singers that give specialties which are unanimously voted up-to-date and well done.

G. A. R. and W. R. C. Picnic.

Notices had been given and invitations extended to Oxford Post and Corps to be present on Oct. 2, at the residence of Jason F. Rowe for a basket picnic.

Notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather in the morning, which evidently detained some from being there, at 12 o'clock, the dinner hour, a goodly number was on hand and ready to partake of a sumptuous dinner as arranged by the post and hostess, Mrs. Anna Bennett.

Mrs. and Mrs. Rowe, on tables set for the occasion, some of which had to be out of doors, of course, for want of room in the house, some fifty being seated at the tables. Rev. Mr. Budden invoked a blessing and the company ate, drank and were happy and nearly full to running over.

It was a very enjoyable occasion from beginning to end, and thanks were due, and were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Rowe for the very cordial manner in which they had arranged for so complete and successful entertainment.

After dinner, and the tables cleared away, a short season was spent in remarks by Dr. Bennett, E. H. Brown, A. F. Noyes, J. E. Budden and a poem by Mrs. Bennett.

A season was then spent in a social manner, after which ice cream and cake were served which completed the doings of the day and all retired in good order and satisfied with a day well spent.

GAYLORD OF THE WEST

By Elia W. Peattie.

Copyright, 1901, by Elia W. Peattie.

"I'm done for," he said. "I'm clean out of Stubbs. But there's a lot of others traveling my road, and I'm not going to feel lonesome. I'm simply going to pack my grip and get out. I've got a little money that I can honestly use, though most of what I have in the bank will have to go to paying off the men at the mines and settling up matters, and I've this to say, Stubbs, to you. If you want to go with me, you may. I brought you over here, and you may share my fortunes to the end of my life, but I give you fair warning they'll be misfortunes from this time on for awhile. Of course I'll get on my feet again somehow, but I don't know when nor where nor how. I'm used to roughing it, and I don't mind, at least I wouldn't mind but for one thing, but that's neither here nor there. Now, what will you do? I'm with you, Stubbs. Say your say."

"Why, sir," said the man, touched by his employer's misfortunes, "there's a very respectable place in a barber's shop that will be open to me, and I'll be better there. I'd be a burden to you, sir, but here I'll be well provided for, and on condition I beg your pardon, sir, but you'll understand how I mean it—to be of some assistance to you should you need it at any time."

He sat like a lamb while Stubbs arrayed him.

The tears were in Gaylord's eyes in a second. "No, no, Stubbs. I shan't need your assistance, I hope, but if I do I'll ask for it and be proud to, and there's my hand on it. I don't know yet where I'll go, but there are many reasons why the sooner I get away from here the better."

That night Thaddeus Gaylord left Denver. Stubbs returned to his master's old apartments at the Brown place and was gathering up such of his trinkets as he had not packed when a nervous little knock at the door arrested him. He opened it to the lady of the miniature.

"He is gone?" she almost whispered. "Mr. Gaylord is really gone?" She held a note in her hand, which Stubbs at once saw was in his departed patron's handwriting. "He is gone, madam," said Stubbs, having profoundly. She walked back and forth in the room in apparent distress of mind. "You are his man?" she asked at length, stopping suddenly and facing Stubbs.

"I am, and if I can be of any service to you, pray let me know, madam. I'm sure Mr. Gaylord would wish me to do anything in my power—or or his, madam."

"Mr. Gaylord," said the lady, "was a friend of mine. He has gone just when I needed him most. I do not know what to do—what to do—what to do?" She wrung her pretty little hands together.

"Won't you tell me what I can do for you, madam? There is certainly something."

"Listen," she said, drawing near the valet and looking at him with dilated eyes. "I have something so terrible to say that you will hardly believe me! No one knows yet, not a soul. As soon as I found it out I looked at the door and came here. I ran all the way. I knew the number of his room, and I came right here, and he is gone. I had a note saying he was going, but I thought I might get here in time. Do you know what has happened? My father—he took hold of the valet's sleeve, groping for human sympathy—"my poor father has killed himself!"

Stubbs instinctively and respectfully supported her swaying body.

By and by she grew calmer and permitted him to inform the proper persons and to send for her carriage and see her safe home. He sent out telegrams after the departing train on which his patron had gone, but no response came. Gaylord himself had had no idea of his destination. He did not know when he left whether he would stop in the mountains after he crossed the divide or go on to the Pacific coast, or still farther to Honolulu.

The death of George Lowman attracted but little attention. When the news of his insolvency and his suicide went abroad, people simply concluded that they had overestimated his wealth and had been mistaken as to the source from which it came.

His daughter's existence was unknown to many of those who had an acquaintance with her father, for it was but a few weeks since she came to the city. The women who had taken it upon themselves to introduce her and to show her courtesies were kind now and visited her and invited her to their houses and sent flowers.

The poor child turned toward them a white face of refusal and shut her doors on all the world. She dismissed the servants the next morning and bent herself to the task of looking after her father's affairs. She gave the whole thing over finally into the hands of his attorneys and quitted the place at twilight, when none might see her, with no attendant save the faithful Stubbs.

He had sent her trunks to a quiet place in the suburbs, where the mountains looked down on a grass grown table land and white streets, irrigating ditches and clumps of wild willows. For several days she did little but lie on the settee and watch the rise and fall of the sea. The consciousness that she would soon be penniless had prompted her to forbid Stubbs to let any of her few friends know her whereabouts. A few days more would bring her penury. Her proud little spirit would not endure the idea of mendicancy, even in its most agreeable forms, and she shut herself close in the house and kept her heartache as her only guest.

As time went on her little purse suffered perfect depletion. She might have given lessons in bad French or mistaken pupils on the piano, only no one in Denver was paying for luxuries of that sort just then. Denver was economizing—dramatically. It was, in fact, in an ecstasy of conscious rascality, and it made the most of it. Thed Lowman, however, had no call to be histrionic, because she had no audience. She kept a diary and made notes of her emotions, and she watched the mails and was forever expecting a letter from Gaylord, who had gone, as he explained to her in his farewell note, to retrieve himself and would return to her only when he was once more a rich man.

She was convinced that he was keeping watchful care over her when, about a month after her misfortunes and just when her fortune looked the blackest, an envelope came, containing a number of bills—quite enough to keep her in comfort for several weeks to come. She told Stubbs about the money—she was confidential with Stubbs—and asked him if he didn't suppose Mr. Gaylord had caused his banker to send the money, which would account for the Denver stamp mark on the envelope. Stubbs said that was a reasonable supposition, and little Miss Lowman was perfectly happy.

Though she had entertained such violent scruples against accepting help from any one else, she had no compunction at all at receiving it from Thaddeus Gaylord. He had told her, with frenzied iterations, that he loved her, that he must marry her, that he had never loved any one else and that she was the loveliest woman in the world. She found nothing irritating in the fact that Gaylord, bewildered at his own misfortunes, had forgotten to inquire about her condition.

As the months went by the mysterious stipend continued to come un- failingly, and Heth kept up her spirits and made herself useful. She loved the spot where she lived. The eagles flew over it sometimes, and the mountains were seldom hidden. One day that which Heth expected happened.

Stubbs had not called in the morning, as usual, and Miss Lowman, who had come to depend upon him for her morning paper and any small service she might wish performed, wondered if he were ill. She sat at the window, gazing into the street and saw him coming down the street. And, glad- ness, gladness! He was not alone! Beside him strode a gentleman with a flamboyant mustache—a gentleman who looked as if he were in the habit of having men and obstacles and even United States mail wagons get out of his way! In his arms Stubbs carried a basket of roses and sundry little packages, and as they walked the man with the mustache talked all the time. Heth could hear his ringing voice come up to her through the closed window.

She flew back to her own room and sat down and sewed some more of the lace in the neck of her frock with an air of deadly indifference. She heard him bounding up the stairs three steps at a time, and she still sewed in the lace. She heard an impetuous knock at the door, and it burst open—Heth was just knotting a thread—and the next thing she knew she was not in her chair at all or on the floor at all, but—Well, well, never mind.

"Well," said he, "Heth, I'm back!" No one smiled. Every one seemed to think the remark was new.

"I'm on my feet again. I knew I would be, with you waiting. Alaska salmon did it. I canned the tails. The fools were throwing away as much as "Well," said he, "Heth, I'm back." They came. I swear they were. I've got a canny in the shadow of a volcano and under the lid of a glacier, and I want you to see it."

It didn't seem surprising to anybody that Gaylord should wish to take his bride to a salmon cannery.

"I didn't know your plight, dear child, till Stubbs told me. Heavens, if I had known it I'd have been home quick enough!"

"Didn't know it?" gasped Heth, wiping her eyes on a diminutive pocket handkerchief. How, then—"But she was interrupted by Stubbs, who came in with the roses and the lace, which the traveler made her open and which contained trinkets of various kinds—silver bracelets from the Thinglets and a silk shawl from Chinatown at Portland and carved bone spoons from the Aleuts and a necklace of Alaska garnets.

"If it hadn't been for that fellow's waistcoats," said Gaylord, pointing to his valet, "and all the rest of the truck with which he furnished me, I might have fared badly. Heth. The rascal packed up my whole outfit, and where I've been clothes wear out fast, not to mention the fact that it's often com- fortable to wear three suits at a time. I wore my swallowtail with a blue flannel shirt and a pair of checked trousers, and it seemed to take with the natives first rate."

Stubbs had never known before that his master's mistress could give a peal of laughter like that. He hadn't an idea of it, or that her eyes could dance like will-o'-the-wisps on a foggy night.

"But if you don't know about my misfortunes," said she, suddenly returning to her former question, "how was it that you sent me that money every month? But for you I should have been a beggar, and I know I should have broken my heart."

"Money," said Gaylord, "money!" Stubbs was making for the door. "Come back here, you rascal," cried Gaylord. "Turn around, sir."

Stubbs' face was scarlet. "Look at that, my dear, will you?" cried Gaylord. "Look at that. Guilt painted on every feature. See that, my dear?"

Heth got up and slipped her hand in Stubbs' big paw. "I hope you will never have to be parted from—from Mr. Gaylord—and me," said she.

Gaylord was mopping his blue eyes. "Stubbs," he said, "I—"

"Don't mention it, sir, if you please. My fathers have been gentlemen's men for five generations, sir, and it would be queer if I didn't understand a gentleman's feelings, sir, and know what he would want done under certain circumstances."

"How," cried Gaylord, throwing up his hand, "can I ever live up to Stubbs?"

How's This?

Correcting Cattle Show Items.

West Paris, Sept. 24, 1900.

To the Editor of the Norway ADVERTISER:

I notice that in your last issue you took special pains to state that S. N. Young was breeding lineback Herefords. If you have a reporter who doesn't know the difference between a perfect marked Hereford and a lineback, I think that I would let him go, for I take it as insult upon my breed of cattle.

You stated that I got $2 premium on 2-year-old bull, that was another honor. I got the blue ribbon. $2 was the second calf prize, however.

Yours,

S. N. YOUNG.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—It is the object in describing the exhibits at the fair to tell of them so that the spectators can remember them as they read the story in the paper, and know that they saw these same things. Of course in the hurry of the work some things will be stated differently from what they would be if there were time to reread and revise the copy before it goes to the compositors.

In regard to the premiums, the list as published was copied from the returns made by the judging committee to the Secretary's office. Perhaps there was an error in figures in copying. We bought for the fair that the list was unofficial, and of course in that case it would be subject to revision or correction. We are glad to state, however, that with the efficient committees employed by Oxford County Agricultural Society there seldom arises occasion for revision.

Mrs. Sarah Farwell has returned home from Lovell where she has been spending the summer.

THINK IT OVER. There's a reason for those pains in your back and sides, for those dull, dragging aches, that stiffness, "keep-away-from-me" feeling. The kidneys are to blame. They get sick, can't do their work and the whole system feels the effect, just as a whole town feels the effect of a blockaded sewerage system.

Doan's Kidney Pills

Set matters right quickly and easily. They never fail, even in the most advanced stages of kidney disease.

Mrs. C. V. Pitts, of 21 Broad street, New London, Conn., whose husband conducts a grocery store says:

"Previous to using Doan's Kidney Pills in the winter of 1898 I was greatly inconvenienced by pain and lameness across the small of my back. The treatment cured that particular attack, and I made the facts known to the people of New London through our daily papers. It is over three years since my original statement was given to the public, and all I can add to it is that during the time specified I have found that a dose or two of Doan's Kidney Pills prevent recurrence."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents a box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

Negotiations for a lot on which to build an Episcopal church are being made at Rumford Falls.

The East Oxford and Franklin County Advent Christian Conference meets at Berry's Mills in Carthage, Oct. 23, and continues over the following Sunday.

The old and often tried horse medicine manufactured by J. H. Rawson of Paris are used by many people, and are favorite remedies for those having diseased horses.

The engine house of the fire department at Bridgton, and Mrs. Charles Scribner's house adjoining were burned Sunday morning a little after midnight. The fire apparatus except the steamer were destroyed. The back end of Chas. Gleason's stable caught fire and was damaged some.

The loss on the engine house was $800; insurance $700; on Mrs. Scribner's house $1500; insurance $1200. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Horse Thief Captured.

One John Morrison hired a team at the livery stable of Brown & Davis in Rumford Falls. He drove to Lewiston and sold the team. As he didn't return promptly, the stable keepers put deputy sheriff Elliott on his track. He traced the team to Lewiston and the thief to "Slab City" in Leeds, where he made the arrest. Morrison was taken before Rumford Falls Municipal Court, bound over to the grand jury and sent to jail, arriving there on Wednesday afternoon.

The jurors not previously reported for Supreme Court, next week, will be RUMFORD.

Mrs. E. F. Elliott visited at Norway, last week.

Mark Elliott is again sick and confined to his bed.

Mrs. Amanda York of Mexico was calling on friends, last week.

Wesley Waterhouse goes to East Rumford to work for C. H. Abbott.

Mrs. Fannie Bartlett's father and niece of Bethel are with her for a short time.

Harvey Clay of Grand Rapids, Mich., is visiting relatives in Rumford and Norway.

Mrs. H. A. Stevens spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Lord at Rumford Falls.

C. M. Elliott of South Rumford moves into the W. W. Stevens house at this place, next week.

George Tuttle is visiting the Exposition at Buffalo. Ed Hutchins takes his place on the stage.

Mrs. Bradbury of Paris was here with a stock of millinery, last week, and as usual had a good trade.

E. F. and H. L. Elliott and Fred Abbott went to the Lakes, last Thursday, returning, Monday, with twenty-seven trout weighing from eight ounces to three pounds.

Pomona Grange.

Pomona Grange was held at South Waterford, Tuesday. There were about three hundred and fifty Grangers who attended and twenty-five were initiated into the mysteries of the fifth degree. Of course an excellent dinner was partaken of, for who ever heard of an all-day Grange meeting of any kind without a good dinner?

Master G. P. Q. Perham was present. The address of welcome by Miranda Billings was a poem full of telling hits. It was happily responded to by Mr. Perham. Mrs. W. K. Hamlin read a paper on "Worry," but it advised people not to worry. A very good advice. Ethel Monroe sang "The Holy City" and gave an encore "Goodbye, Dolly Gray." Master Harry Haines sang a selection, and also received a hearty encore. In the afternoon there was a memorial service in honor of the late President. Prayer was offered by Rev. H. A. Philbrook, Bridgton. There was appropriate speaking by J. A. Roberts, Norway; George Hanson, Paris; G. P. Q. Perham, Woodstock; N. C. Pinkham, Bolster's Mills; Rev. Mr. Philbrook. Miss Hamlin and Mrs. Plummer gave recitations. Ethel Monroe sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

The hall was beautifully decorated with fruit, traces of corn, potted plants and bouquets.

LOVELL.

A Fine Looking House.
C. H. Davis' new house is almost done. It is a fine looking place. May they live long to enjoy it.

Ann Walker is quite sick.

Harmon and Davis commenced work on their cottage, Monday.

Lots of people went from this place to Fryeburg and North Waterford fairs.

They are saving oak at the mill, this week, and will do a lot of repairing later.

Conway parties have put up a fine cottage of seven rooms by the lake, this fall.

E. T. Hubbard went to Boston, Monday. He will attend Boston Dental College.

Bennett McDaniels has bought a house lot of W. A. and C. A. Merrill on Kezar lake.

Isaac McAllister went to North Waterford and played for the dance, fair time. Some say he lost his horse but he came back after the fair was over, just at the close of day.

ALBANY.

A Well-known Man Sells His Farm.
Esquos. Drew has sold his farm to Chas. Grover of Waterford and has bought another in Fryeburg.

Herbert Bean has gone to Lewiston on business.

Archie Wilbur of Boston's Mills visited at Abel Andrews', one day last week.

Everett Mathewson and family have returned to their home in Providence, R. I.

Stephen Libby while driving a short time ago found a beautiful rose and two buds.

Valley Road.

W. A. Rand is repairing his barn.

Millard Lord's family are entertaining guests from out of town.

It makes us shiver to read of the White Mountain snow storms.

Will Rand's four-months-old colt is a fine promising young animal.

Wellington Bird was at his camp on the old place, looking after the apple interests, recently.

Chas. McAllister is in the hen business, has about fifty hens and intends to build a hen house soon.

Mrs. Bruce is home from the hospital and we hope for steady improvement. She was obliged to come on a bed.

Mrs. J. W. Cummings has returned from Auburn where she has been visiting her sister also her daughters Laura and Viola.

Our Valley Road baby, little Clarence McAllister, year-old son of Chas. McAllister, is taking his first steps and of course we are proud of him.

George Grover will be away for awhile picking the apples on his farm in Sumner. He will go with a span and heavy wagon and will take back a load of apples for home use.

Mrs. Lafayette Wilson and son Henry visited Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. Louise Rand and family, last week. They came from their home in Gorham, N. H., with their team.

Dan Smith visited his aunt, Mrs. A. E. K. Grover, and attended the North Waterford fair, Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Grover's niece, Ruby Smith, and Sadie Mason of Bethel were also her guests, Saturday.

WEST BROWNFIELD.

Fine Country of Seed Corn.
Charles Dennett has finished harvesting his seed sweet corn for Morrill Bros. He has a nice lot of it and it's fine quality.

Fred A. Grant and wife are working for Simon Hanson.

Benjamin A. Stone from Peabody, Mass., is boarding at James Dennett's for a few weeks.

Mrs. Sarah Rogers has returned home from Conway, N. H., where she has been working, the past few weeks.

S. E. D. Currier and family have closed their summer cottage, the Idlewild, and returned to Roxbury, Mass., for the winter.

Died, Sept. 28, Sargent Tibbets, at the residence of John T. Tibbets. He will be missed very much. He has been a resident of this town for many years.

EAST HIRAM.

Grand Assembly Pythian Sisterhood.
Mrs. E. C. Burrell attended the Grand Assembly of the Pythian Sisterhood at Auburn, last week.

Mrs. Geo. Clifford attended the State Convention of the W. C. T. U. held at Canoe, last week.

There was no school, Monday and Tuesday. The teacher, attended the West Oxford Teachers' Institution held at Brownfield.

Mrs. Jane S. Dow died at her home in Baldwin, Sept. 26, at the advanced age of 85 years and 3 months. Mrs. Dow was a native of Hiram and a widow of Dr. Dow formerly of this place.

BUCKFIELD.

Found Tools in River.
The New England Telephone Company after some rebuffs has entered this town in force, having completed the setting of poles and stringing of wire. Under cover of darkness some of the tools were thrown into the river and some are not found.

Rev. B. F. Turner has gone to Vermont for a three weeks' vacation.

Milford Irish and Horace Farrar arrived, Tuesday, from Brockton, Mass.

Mrs. F. P. Wittington and Mrs. Benj. Spaulding attended the W. C. T. U. Convention.

Mrs. Merritt Parsons has gone on a visit among friends in Taunton, Mass., and the daughter Nell of Lewiston came home, Friday.

A pumpkin vine started back of Wm. Irish's house, one branched northerly and one in a southerly direction. Each grew 30 to 42 ft. of vine beside other slender vines.

Visitors here have been Albert Austin and wife of Deering, Mrs. Virginia (DeCoster) Jones of North Auburn and Eva Holland of Portland. Of absent ones—H. A. Irish to Bath, Frank Chase and wife to Auburn and Willard Massie to Poland.

As three teams were working their way clear at the depot, Tuesday, a man with a skittish horse attempted to drive an exhibition race. In trying to take a wheel from a dump cart was where he failed.

The horse was not quite heavy enough for the dump cart, hence about 250 pounds of humanity landed over the ditch in the grass. "What has happened?" was his first utterance when they got him up. The wagon that was is a wagon no more, save the axle and there's a hub or rim. No one hurt.

RUMFORD POINT.

Stage Route Sold.
Chas. Simpson has sold his stage route and equipment to Mr. Twitchell of Hanover, who will give up his fish route.

We hope for good weather for the Andover fair.

Mark A. Elliott has not been as well, for the past few days.

Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. C. W. Blanchard attended the Canton fair.

Mrs. Cynthia Walker has returned from her trip to Lewiston.

G. W. Hodgdon is quite "under the weather" and under the care of the physician.

Rev. Mr. Rand, the county missionary, preached at Rumford Point, Sunday, Sept. 30.

Mrs. Chas. Barker is slowly improving. She is in Lewiston having treatment for her lameness.

Ezra Smith left, last week, for his home, Yazoo City, Miss. He will visit the Pan-American on his way.

Capt. H. S. Hayes returned from Upper Dam, Saturday, Sept. 29. He reports that fishing is at a discount.

Corner Glover preached at Rumford Point, Sept. 29. She was entertained in town by Miss Elaine Roberts.

D. Merrill returned from the Lakes, Sept. 29, where he has been employed as cook. Mrs. Merrill and children have returned from Andover.

A base ball game was played, Saturday, Sept. 29, between Rumford Point and Hanover, which resulted in the latter winning. The score stood 12 to 20.

Rev. Mr. Smith, who has occupied the pulpit, the past summer, left to resume his studies at Yale Seminary. He was to spend a few days in Slatesville, R. I., as guest of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Donnell.

The Franklin League gave an entertainment on Friday evening, Sept. 28. The following is the program:

September song.....Five misses
Recitation.....Three small boys
Song.....Four misses
Recitation.....Three little girls
Song.....Alice Hopkins
Recitation solo vocal.....Myrtle Barker
Song.....Ten or twelve young ladies
Minstrel selections on harmonica and bones.....Two young men

After the entertainment ice cream and cake were served, the proceeds to be expended in purchasing a flag. A very large attendance.

GILEAD.

F. L. Lord has been quite sick.

Edna Merrill was quite ill, last week.

Fred Goodnow and wife returned home from Stoneham, last Monday.

J. W. Bennett has a new clerk in his store to take the place of Frank Coffin.

Mrs. Frank Coffin of West Bethel is visiting at her sister's, Mrs. A. J. Gibbins.

Mrs. James DeCoster and brother, Alfred Heath, attended the Waterford fair, last Friday and Saturday.

Edith Cole came home, last Saturday. She has been working for Mrs. A. Heath while she attended the Waterford fair.

Quite a number of the people from this place attended the masquerade ball at Bell's hall, West Bethel, last Wednesday evening.

Seth Bemis and daughter and Mrs. Rob Bennett and son returned home from Fryeburg, last Saturday where they have been visiting relatives.

Ralph Peabody and Al Percival returned home, last Monday night, from where they have been working on the merry-go-round for A. T. Heath.

We understand Mr. Plummer has formed a stock company of his purchase of the Oxford House and has capitalized it at $50,000.00 and has sold some ten thousand dollars or more of the stock, this season.

There seems to be the need of a good livery stable in connection with this house. With this addition its appointments would be pretty near perfect. There is a stable nearby where horses are kept and fifty cents per feed charged which for the accommodation and attention given seems excessive. High over for the three days of cattle fair. These were the prices charged for those who patronized the Walker House stable. This charge may be all right for "city guests" but it seems steep for countrymen, farmers and brother stable-keepers.

WEST SUMMER.

In Memory of the Dead.
Mrs. Lizzie A. Chandler had a pretty, modern monument set, Sept. 30th, on her lot in Pleasant Pond cemetery to the memory of her husband, the late Reuben Chandler. From Mr. Wise at South Paris.

The sons of the late Shepherd Butnam and wife have set a very pretty double stone at their graves in Pleasant Pond cemetery. It is from the marble works of Frank A. Randall, Auburn.

H. E. Baker has some nice sample strawberry plants.

Henry Young and wife visited relatives in Livermore, several days last week.

L. C. Bates is spending a week or so with his son, Dr. J. H. Bates, at Rochester, N. H.

Freeman Maxim has been to Auburn on a visit to his uncles, George and Charles Merrill.

A drove of cattle passed through here, last Sunday, en route for somewhere we can't learn where.

Apple picking is the order of the day. Some have many more than they expect. Barrels are scarce.

O. G. Chandler and wife went to Auburn, last Tuesday, to attend the wedding of his son, Elton Chandler.

Myrtle B. Kneeland of Portland came, Tuesday, to spend the month of October with her sister, Mrs. Fozzo McLaughlin.

Mrs. Cynthia Bisbee spent the last half of last week at Sumner with her brother and sister-in-law, Antipas and Polly Bisbee.

Mr. and Mrs. Fozzo McLaughlin have received a visit from his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dole of Readfield. Mr. D. is proprietor of "The Maple" and is now summer resort at the head of Lake Maranacook.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cotton of Windsor, Vt., and Mrs. Hiram Pulsifer and daughter Louise of South Paris were at A. O. Swift's, Oct. 1st. We were very pleased to receive a call from them although not as long as we would have liked. They visited our cemetery, where lie many once near and dear to them, also other places of interest.

HEBRON.

Ninth Annual Reunion of Conant Family.
The Conant family held their ninth annual reunion at the East Hebron Grange hall, Friday, Sept. 24. The weather was perfect itself and at an early hour carriages began to arrive.

This Conant family is the branch of the Conant descending from Everett Conant, who died in Vermont, Dec. 28, 1893. The children of Everett Conant were Hiram A., Howard T., Sylvia, Edwin, Martha and Sanford E.

Howard T. Conant was the only child of Everett Conant present. The children are all living. Hiram and Sylvia. The grandchildren are as follows: Hiram's family—eight sons and six daughters; Howard's family—five daughters and one son; Sylvia—one son; Edwin—three children; Martha—one child; Sanford—three children.

There are 29 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren. In the forenoon they elected the following board of officers:

President—Charles King, Kingston, N. H.
Vice-president—E. O. Conant, Hebron.
Secretary—Mrs. Nellie Conant, Hebron.
Treasurer—Geo. I. Conant, Minot, N. H.
Chaplain—Wm. Conant, Rockfield.
Committee of Entertainment—Mrs. H. T. Conant, Everett E. Conant and George Sampson.

Prof. Teague was in Norway, last Saturday.

Mrs. Sadie Cummings has been visiting relatives in Norway.

Ex-Governor Garcelon of Auburn was the guest of Dr. Josiah C. Donham, last Friday.

Hazel Donham of Bates College spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Hebron.

The teachers in the Sunday school met at Mrs. Sarah Howe's, last Monday evening.

Ada Lovejoy is very sick with typhoid fever at the Central Maine General Hospital in Lewiston.

Dr. Crane and Prof. Sargent attended the Baptist Missionary Convention at Bangor, last week.

The annual Harvest Home of the Baptist church will be held Friday afternoon and evening, Oct. 25th.

Mr. and Mrs. Drew Thompson of Auburn have recently been visiting at their daughter's, Mrs. Rosa Donham's.

SUNDAY RIVER.

To Log in Ketchum.
The Trask Brothers have taken a logging job in Ketchum.

Mrs. Priscilla Foster is confined to the house by illness.

Lillian Ingalls of Portland is spending a few weeks at C. D. Bean's.

Letter to Dennis Pike.

Norway, Me.
Dear Sir: You know your painter; we don't; we only know painters in general.

There are two sorts, as there are two sorts of everybody else. One paints as well as he can; the other as poor as he can and gets business.

The one who paints as well as he can is all the time learning; the other one knows it all now.

Josh Billings says "it's better not to know too much than to know so many things that a'n't so." There are lots of things in paint that "a'n't so." Lead and oil is one of 'em.

Devoe lead and zinc lasts twice as long; is better in every respect; is ready to dip the brush in; you can depend on the colors; no mystery; no uncertainty; costs no more; costs less.

We hope you employ Mr. Open-Mind Painter, and not Mr. Know-it-all now.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.
P. S.—F. P. Stone sells our paint in your section.

Children's Corner.

North Lovell, Maine, Sept. 21, 1901.
DEAR EDITOR: I go to school and I have even studies, large arithmetic, large geography, large grammar, large history, large English, large spelling. My teacher's name is Ina Gammon of West Stoneham. I like her very much. We have got three cats and two calves and about sixteen hens and twenty-five chickens. I will close with a riddle and name in figures. Down in a dark dungeon there was a brave knight, all saddled, all bridled, all ready to go, his silk was his saddle, brass was his bow, I have told you three times and now you don't know.

North Lovell, Sept. 19, 1901.
DEAR EDITOR: I like to read the Children's Corner so I thought I would write. We have got six calves, eight cows, two young heifers, a year old. We have twelve scholars. I like to go to school. I have got four sisters.

Good by, Ethel F. Adams.
Wordsworth's lines of the child at play "as if his whole vacation were endless imitation" were recently recalled by a conversation overheard in the children's ward at a provincial hospital.

A little girl, whose role was that of nurse, rang an imaginary telephone on the wall to talk to her companion at the further end of the room, who played the part of doctor.

"Hello," said the nurse, "Is that the doctor?"
"Yes," answered her companion in a deep voice, "that is the doctor."

"This lady is very ill," he was informed.
"Well, what seems to be the matter?"
"She has swallowed a whole bottle of ink," said the nurse.

The doctor, not flurried, inquired what had been done for the patient; but the nurse, too, was ready in emergencies.
She answered: "I gave her two pads of blotting paper!"

Two Pleasant Evenings.
Did you ever spend an evening watching the moonlight on the salt water? Last Thursday and Friday evenings, the writer enjoyed that privilege from the upper deck of the steamboat Governor Dingley, staying out till nearly midnight to enjoy the beautiful scene. The air was clear and just cool enough to be pleasant if one wore his overcoat. The full moon shone over everything and the shore line was constantly distinct. Early evening, the trip was enlivened by the presence of De La Isle Adam Commandery of Knights of Malta coming from Boston to Portland for a lodge visit. They were a companionable lot of young men and their songs and stories made the hours pass very swiftly on the forward deck.

MILWAUKEE PEOPLE
Could Hardly Believe It. A Prominent Woman Saved From Death by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suppose a large number of people who read of my remarkable cure will hardly believe it, but I am a experienced it myself. I know that I should not.

"I suffered for months with troubles peculiar to women which gradually broke down my health and my very life. I was nearly insane with pain at times, and no human skill I consulted in Milwaukee could bring me relief.

"My attention was called to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; the first bottle brought relief, and the second bottle an absolute cure. I could not believe it myself, and felt sure it was only temporary, but blessed fact, I have now been well for a year, enjoy the best of health, and cannot in words express my gratitude. Sincerely yours, SAM E. KOON, 124 10th St., Milwaukee, Wis."—$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women.

Women should remember that they are privileged to consult Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., about their illness, entirely free.

You can't make him eat either. You can stuff food in to a thin man's stomach but that doesn't make him use it.

Scott's Emulsion can make him use it. How? By making him hungry, of course.

Scott's Emulsion makes a thin body hungry all over. Though a thin body was naturally hungry didn't you? Well it isn't.

A thin body is asleep—no working—gone on a strike. It doesn't try to use its food.

Scott's Emulsion wakes it up—puts it to work again making new flesh. That's the way to get fat.

Fair at North Waterford.

A Large Lot of Fairs and Many People in Attendance.—Dance for the Young Folks in I. O. O. F. Hall—Fine Hall Exhibit—Cattle, Horses and Drawing Matches.

Fair weather makes a fair. That is, it would be impossible to hold a fair in stormy weather. Friday was a perfect day for the season. Everybody wanted to be out of doors and a goodly number of people in this vicinity went to North Waterford. The village square was crowded full of people, all enjoying the autumn day, visiting with one another, buying the wares of the tradesmen and listening to the enlivening music of the merry-go-round.

This merry-go-round is owned by Archie T. Heath of Gilead, who conducts it personally with able assistants. He is well-known at the fairs about here and has a big patronage. The children and young people clinging to the prancing steeds, with their laughing faces and sparkling eyes, as they abandon every care and give themselves up to the harem-scram ride, was a sight the older ones liked to look upon. A crowd was always standing around looking on.

"Come here," shouted one in front. "Come here," said another back of you. "Come here," screamed still another at one side, and in the distance "Come here" and "Come here" echoed and re-echoed. It was the fairs calling to the people. The square was well supplied with tents and stands and booths. Fruit, grapes, peanuts, cigars, frankfurts, soft drinks, beer, pop corn predominated. Among those selling these were: A. L. Marr of Oxford, Charles Holland of Limerick, G. G. G. of Bridgton Center, F. L. Garland of Snow, Matt Osgood of Bethel, Tricobell Bros. of Oxford, Robert Kimball of Albany.

Joseph J. Smith of Roxbury, Mass., supplied handkerchiefs so many of them for so small a price that it was cheaper to own them than to go without. He also had jewelry.

John Grover of East Stoneham added for cream and lemonade to the fruit and cigar trade. Also Max Shapiro of Auburn, the ice cream man had "Ice cream made from pure cream."

F. H. Beck, from Beck's Bazaar, Norway, had a modest stand. The principal article was a souvenir of the fair, a flower group that could be worn in the hair or as a button-hole bouquet. Mr. Beck explained that he was only there for a sort of amusement while his wife who used to live in that vicinity saw the fair and her old friends.

A. W. Sweetser of Portland was the "popcorn man."

Bowler, photographer, of Bethel had a large tent fitted with all the accessories for the taking of "fair pictures." Over the entrance the reason for it was explained. "Tintypes taken in five minutes." We watched a group from the outside and concluded this was the time allowance after fixing up and getting posed had been appropriately accomplished. On the outer walls were hung many specimens of work.

L. E. Cole of Berlin, N. H., auctioned off jewelry in a large variety of forms. The man in attendance was a good talker and interested many people during the two days.

A. J. Nevers the Norway bottler of soft drinks had a tent in charge of Lee M. Watson and Wm. Latham. Mr. Watson was doing the talking when we were there and they sold large quantities of their bottled products, cigars, fruits and eatables.

B. Alexander & Co., Dorchester, supplied the wants of those who wished their sight repaired. He had spectacles of all kinds. English Crystal glasses a specialty.

W. B. Chute of Naples dealt out real hot rolls and frankfurts, and the seemingly ever present soft drinks, cigars and confectionery.

J. T. Lewis of North Waterford had dry and fancy goods. These goods had a substantial look among the other more fleeting and vanishing wares. These were something that could be taken home and kept and seemed like there was something to show for one's money.

H. M. Perry & Co., Saco, had California quartz in little boxes; also the Eureka belts.

The ever new and entertaining orange haired images suspended in rows that the skilful hit by throwing a ball from proper distance and received a reward were there. Likewise the manufactured for the occasion dark in tall hat that one stuck his head through a round aperture in a lightly stretched canvas. A real African saw that the fair people were supplied with balls to hit the aforesaid individual. Two flags of our country waved over this canvas. We presume that was to make the thrower fire low, as it is a serious thing to fire on Old Glory.

G. F. Merrill of South Paris had one of his makes of O. K. plows. He would give it a slight twist and a turn and it would apparently fall all to pieces, and right itself with another turn of the hand. This is a very handy plow for many kinds of ground.

Dr. Truett's electric belts had their merits well brought out.

George Devine of Norway, a member of the F. H. Noyes Co., clothiers, with stores in both Norway and Bangor, had a neat little four-colored folder that he generously gave to the people telling them of what they might expect to find at the stores.

Shaw's Business College of Portland, Augusta and Bangor supplied the people freely with reading matter.

The ladies of the Congregational society fed the hungry with food. The long tables in the vestry under the church were set up again and again. There was good food and plenty of it, and the waiters were most attentive.

Foultry.

Bert J. Flint of North Waterford had a pair of W. F. Black Spanish fowl, trio of White Rocks, pair S. C. Brown Leghorns and trio of chicks, and a coop of Black Decoy ducks. These ducks had many admirers among the people.

C. T. Francis of Oisfield Gore had a pair of Plymouth fowl and a pair of chicks.

Exhibition Hall.

This part of the fair was in the school house and the display was most creditable. It was under the direct supervision of the hall committee, Mrs. H. L. Little, Mrs. W. D. Moulton and Mrs. J. W. Dresser of Waterford, and the committee on fancy work, Mrs. M. N. Savin of Albany, Mrs. H. H. Bickford of Stoneham, and Mrs. Henry Bickford of Stoneham.

The Maine Novelty Co. had a large exhibit of Smyrna rugs, table covers and lace curtains.

G. A. Kenerson of Dixfield made gold wire jewelry in an almost endless variety of designs.

Horace Richardson of Norway had the Singer sewing machine.

Lydia M. Sawin, an elderly lady, had two pairs of knit gents' hose and two pairs of mittens.

Mrs. W. D. Moulton had two crocheted center pieces, ribbon tidy, tidy of yellow ribbon and crocheted bureau set, two lamp mats, one crocheted in the rose pattern.

Eliza W. Saunders and Alice W. Saunders had each several finely embroidered centerpieces and tray cloths. Mrs. Eliza A. Farum a broad lace collar made in a Portland nunnery. Edith G. Jones of Salem, Mass., a hemstitched handkerchief with a broad crocheted lace edge. Mrs. Ellen K. Millett, North Waterford, an applique piano scarf in shades of brown on light blue with darker blue ends, and child's shirt trimmed with broad darned lace. Her daughter, Ceila F. Millett, seven years old, had a silk quilt, made of pieces an inch square.

Little Annie L. Flint, patchwork quilt. Mrs. Nellie Flint, Albany, large woven rug. Mrs. C. H. Fernald, Albany, drawn rug. May Dresser, a little girl, had a needle book, pin balls and hemstitched handkerchief. Lizzie Dresser, eight years old, choquet edge.

Sadie M. Henley, North Waterford, crocheted edges, four tray cloths in outline work. Belle Jones, North Waterford, two sofa pillows in biscuit work. Mrs. J. W. Dresser, North Waterford, umbrella shawl; also one by her daughter, eight years old. Mrs. L. W. Ramsdell, North Waterford, child's dress, trimmed with Mexican work lace. Mrs. M. D. Mosher, North Waterford, biscuit sofa top. Mrs. E. H. Burnham, Lynchville, crocheted table mats, rose tidy, centerpieces and pin cushion.

Mrs. Nancy Manning, 74 years old, silk quilt, two slumber robes and sofa pillow. Mrs. P. B. Henley, North Waterford, had two ancient brass candlesticks, snuff box and tray, tea caddy and fruit dish. Mrs. Lena Ejsbe, crocheted handkerchief bag.

Lewellyn W. Ramsdell, a sofa pillow in outline, nicely finished off with a ruffe that he made while in college.

Fruit and Vegetables.

Herman E. Holt, North Waterford, made a display of farm produce, among which were muskmelons, watermelons, white cucumbers, onions, parsnips, tomatoes. J. D. Horr, potatoes and cranberries. Mrs. Lena A. Flint, raspberries on the vines and a tumbler full of picked ones. Mrs. P. B. Henley, five potatoes that filled a peck measure.

Traced corn was shown by J. D. Horr and P. B. Henley, of Waterford. Frank McAllister of East Stoneham, a trace of corn from burned ground.

Cattle, Horses, Etc.

G. M. Knight, North Waterford, had a brood mare and foal 2½ months old. This was a very large, fine looking colt. Mrs. Lizzie M. Dresser, a brood mare, with colt 3 months 3 weeks old. It was a good colt, and weighs 305 pounds. R. R. Nason, a year old Durham bull, two cows (one a nearly full blooded Holstein, and the other half Holstein and half Durham), and a Holstein calf. Clinton Nason, the son, is a proud boy of his pair of white-faced calves. They are beautiful and look almost as large as yearlings. Clinton said they were ½ Hereford and ½ Holstein.

Stephen Abbott, North Norway, had a pair of dark red three-year-olds that measured 5 ft. 11 in. These cattle are known as good plowers and on exhibition.

Drawing Oxen.

E. Spaulding Abbott of Norway had a pair of four-year-old red Durhams with white marks. They measured 6 ft. 7 in. Merritt N. Sawin, Albany, a pair of 6 ft. 8 in. Durhams. The oxen were loaded on a load of 4900 pounds with this result: Abbott's moved it 80 ft. 11 in. in the five minutes allotted; Sawin's, 79 ft. 2 in.

Dancing and About the Grounds.

The dance in I. O. O. F. hall in the afternoon and evening was well attended with dancers, about the size of the hall were filled with spectators. Music was furnished by Packard's orchestra—four pieces.

The order on the grounds was excellent. Sheriff Tucker of South Paris and Deputy Sheriff Bassett of Norway, were on hand, and there was a marked change from a few years ago, when this fair got anything but an enviable reputation. Only one drunken man was seen on the grounds Friday. He was not arrested, but was sent home after the care of friends, on the assurance that he would be kept away from the grounds. This state of affairs did not please every one, of course, and some of the outsiders were heard to declare that "they had stopped the drinking and the gambling and broken up the fair." Perhaps it had, for them, but we again aver it was a most orderly and intelligent acting and looking crowd of people on the grounds, from the vestry to the I. O. O. F. hall and down the village streets.

Saturday, the weather was again propitious. There were more people at the fair than the first day.

Notwithstanding the vast amount of soft drinks that were sold, the village pump on the square was hard worked during the two days. It had few idle moments, and it groaned out its protests.

The church bell was rung for dinner. It was rung at about a five o'clock that some thought at first it might mean fire. Then the rush started for the dining hall.

A. O. Holt was marshal of the day, and W. A. Allen secretary. They were here, there and everywhere, and were kept pretty busy.

Starting an Evening School.

Our public school superintendent, Payson Smith, is visiting cities, with evening schools, this week, preparatory to starting one here. Mr. Smith will speak before teachers' conventions in Lincoln and York counties soon.

A Five Thousand Dollar Fire.

The Blanchard & Twitchell boarding house at the upper end of the village on Hancock street, owned by A. E. Stearns and occupied by Ed. Downs as a boarding house, was burned, Saturday morning at four o'clock, being totally destroyed. It was a large two-story building containing about 24 rooms, and there were about seventy boarders there at the time. Only a very little furniture was saved. The loss is between four and five thousand, with an insurance of four thousand—three thousand on the house and one thousand on the furniture.

Interesting Services.
On account of the inclemency of the weather there were no church services here, Sunday forenoon, but the afternoon was clear and warm and a good big congregation listened to the last sermon here this season by Rev. J. C. Snow, D. D., of Paris Hill, and the excellent music furnished by the choir. It was again quite rainy in the evening, nevertheless there was a good number out to the temperance meeting conducted by the W. C. T. U. president, Mrs. Julia A. Rich, and which consisted of a paper, "The Adulterations of Wine," by Nina B. Bryant; a short story, "Uncle Reuben's Child Care," for the benefit of the children, and "Echoes of the Convention" by Jennie Brown, which made all wish they could have gone to Biddeford too. Prof. Scott Wight of Bethel sang a solo. Mrs. Geo. Burnham of South Paris, who knows how to get the music out of an instrument, was organist. Mr. Wight, Mr. and Mrs. Burnham sang a trio and also sang with the congregation the "White Ribbon" hymns, all of which helped to make the meeting very interesting.

NORWAY, ME., August 2, 1901.
Hiram P. Farrow, State Inspector of Dams and Reservoirs.

Dear Sir:
In accordance with Section 42 of Chapter 92 of the Revised Statutes of Maine, as amended by Chapter 107 of the Public Laws of 1897, we the undersigned, Selectmen of the town of Norway, county of Oxford, and State of Maine, hereby petition you to inspect the North Pond dam, so called, situated in said Norway, the property of the Norway Water Company, owners of the Oxford Light Company, owners of the water privileges of the said North Pond, said dam being used for the saving of water for manufacturing or other uses.

Respectfully submitted,
S. BARNBORN,
H. M. JACKSON,
ALVIN BROWN,
Selectmen of Norway.

Upon the foregoing petition I hereby order that Saturday, the 15th day of October, A. D. 1901, at 10 o'clock in the a. m., and the premises named in said petition, be designated as the time and place for the examination of the dam and petition, at which time and place I will be present for the purpose of examining said dam, after which, at some convenient place in the vicinity of the hearing of the parties and their witnesses will be had, and such further action taken in the premises as I shall deem proper under the Statutes in such cases made and provided.

It is further ordered that notice be given to the parties and persons interested by serving an attested copy of this petition with the order thereon upon the chairman of the Selectmen of said Norway; also upon the clerk or secretary of the Norway Water Company aforesaid, and also upon the clerk or secretary of the said Oxford Light Company, and upon all other parties or persons by publishing an attested copy of this petition and order thereon in the Oxford County Advertiser, a newspaper published at Norway, in said county of Oxford, said service and publication to be at least seven days before the time appointed for said examination and hearing.

Dated at Belmont, Me., this 12th day of September, A. D. 1901.

HIRAM P. FARROW,
Inspector of Dams and Reservoirs.
